Dear Simone,

Our office has had the pleasure of utilizing the Mattioli Ultrapeel Microdermabrasion System with and without the addition of electroporation and iontophoresis for the past several months. We have, and more importantly, our patients have benefited from the use of this device.

The Ultrapeel is an outstanding crystal microdermabrasion machine which has been used and proven over the years to be one of the finest devices of its kind on the market.

With the addition of electroporation and iontophoresis, we are capable of achieving new ways to deliver medicines and products through the skin as never before. Lidocaine with epinephrine infusion through these methods into the skin without the need for needles is an amazing achievement, especially for those patients afraid of needles. Further work with 20% 5-aminolevulinic acid will hopefully show that the absorption of the 5-ALA can be enhanced, making photodynamic therapy for our patients even more effective. Finally, the ability to deliver unique molecules/drugs/medicines into the skin, which is being evaluated at this time, will perhaps completely alter many of our prescribing habits.

This company has spent the time and effort to define and refine their products. They perform extensive R&D and have machines tested by investigators to back their claims. They stand by their products and have been a pleasure to deal with.
